Wi-Fi Available at Monroe Community Center

Amherst County's Information Technology Department has partnered with Seiontec to provide free Wi-Fi access to the community at the Monroe Community Center. The building is currently closed to the public; however, visitors can access the internet from the parking lot. This is part of a joint effort on the part of Amherst County and Amherst County Public Schools to provide internet access to those who may need it for schoolwork, applying for unemployment, or conducting business online. In an effort to help enrich the community where Seiontec does business, they will continue to provide this service free of charge to the Monroe Community Center for as long as the county wishes to provide the access.

There is no password needed and users will need to accept a disclaimer before accessing the internet.
